HELPING CHILDREN | SUPPORTING FAMILIES | SHOWING COMPASSION

Helping Children

Every child is a gift from God. Yet some begin life carrying burdens that they should never have to bear. Through practical grants and compassionate support, the Presbyterian Children's Society helps children flourish with hope for a better future.

Jesus welcomed children and blessed them, reminding us that every child matters to God. As we care for the youngest among us, we reflect His love, ensuring that they are seen, valued and never forgotten.

Supporting Families

Life can change in a moment. Bereavement, illness, unemployment, separation and other hardships can leave families feeling overwhelmed and uncertain.

The Presbyterian Children's Society comes alongside families with practical support, helping to carry their burdens and reminding them that they are not alone.

Through your generosity and kindness, we share God's comfort and bring hope for the days ahead.

Showing Compassion

Compassion sees people as God sees them. It listens before it speaks, reaches out before it is asked, and quietly brings hope where it is needed most.

For 160 years, the Presbyterian Children's Society has been privileged to serve Presbyterian children and their families in their darkest hours. Every gift, every prayer and every act of generosity shines a light that speaks of God's faithful love.

How you can help

Last year, Presbyterian congregations and supporters generously gave over £385,000 to help children and support families facing hardship.

As demand for our support continues to grow, your gift will help ensure that no child or family faces difficult times alone.

Thank you for helping children, supporting families and showing compassion.
